Notice regarding all Airbridge flight bookings:

Please note that the MOD reserves the right to change fares/dates of travel without notice. Even after payment has been received, fare increases by the MOD might affect the final price you pay for your flight. If the MOD increases the fare before the date of either your outward or return travel you may be required to make an additional payment.

Notice regarding bookings for all provisional flight dates*:

AITA can accept on a first come first serve basis bookings for provisional flight dates. All provisional flight dates are made on the assumption that when the MOD releases a new flight schedule the dates will remain the same.

However, in doing so AIG will not be held responsible for any changes the MOD may make when a new schedule is published. Customers must understand that they make all bookings for provisional dates at their own risk. AIG will not accept any liability for bookings made under these circumstances, in particular if the provisional dates are changed once the MOD publishes the new schedule.

If there are any changes to provisional dates when the MOD publishes the new flight schedule, AIG will contact those persons affected to try place alternative bookings.

I solemnly declare that I have answered the foregoing questions and completed this form fully and accurately, and I have read the above notice and agree to abide by it.
